

Figure 1. Normal Tympanic Membrane.

The normal tympanic membrane is translucent and pearly gray and has a ground-glass appearance that enables a clear view of the short process and the manubrium of the malleus.

Figure 2. Manifestations of Otitis Media with Effusion.

Panel A shows an opaque neutral tympanic membrane, Panel B an opaque tympanic membrane with visible air-fluid levels, and Panel C an amber tympanic membrane.

A

B

C

Figure 3. Manifestations of Acute Otitis Media.

Panel A shows a bulging tympanic membrane, Panel B bullous myringitis (bulging tympanic membrane with bullae), and Panel C cobblestoning of the tympanic membrane (bulging tympanic membrane with micro-perforations).

A

B

C

